A Verse A Verse B Bridge A Verse

This is a basic setup, and works equally well in such diverse material as the blues classic "Kansas City" or the Barbra Streisand Oscar winner "The Way We Were." Joel and I used it in our own "Morning After."

A Verse B Chorus A Verse B Chorus A Verse B Chorus

This is used in the gentle "Killing Me Softly with His Song" and the pulsating "Bad Bad Leroy Brown." In this format, there is no bridge (or release, as it's also called), just an alternating of the first two sections.
